1           WHEREAS, The Wendy's High School Heisman Award was created in 1994 to honor
2 America's high school student-athletes. Each fall, the program recognizes the most talented high 3 school male and female seniors for their excellence in academics, athletics, and community
4 involvement. Each school can nominate one male and one female student-athlete. The program
5 receives approximately 1.4 million applicants from 30,000 high schools. This field is narrowed to 6 1,020 State Finalists, ten male and ten females per state plus the District of Columbia, and then 7 the field is further narrowed to 102 state winners, one male and one female from each state plus 8 the District of Columbia. Finally, in Mid-November, a panel of judges selects ten National 9 Finalists; and

3 classroom. She tore a hamstring in her sophomore year and was warned by her surgeon that 4 recovery would take nine months. Instead, she returned to competing in five months and regained 5 her championship form. In her Junior year, she was diagnosed with acute vocal cord paralysis and 6 received a poor prognosis for recovery. Although she lost her voice and was unable to talk in 7 class or communicate verbally with anyone, she persevered and used writing and artwork to make 8 her "voice" heard. Once again she overcame the odds, with her voice returning in time for her to 9 sing at the spring talent show; and

10           WHEREAS, Laura is an outstanding student who excels in both the classroom and in her 11 community. Some of her academic achievements include being a National Merit Scholarship
