Date Introduced: June 08, 2021

1           WHEREAS, June 10th marks the anniversary of the death, in 1580, of the revered
2 Portuguese poet, Luis Vaz Camoes, who is best known for his epic poem "Os Lusíadas," a tribute
3 to the golden age of Portuguese maritime exploration and discoveries. The day is now celebrated 4 around the world in Portuguese-speaking communities as the "Day of Portugal, Camoes and the 5 Portuguese Communities"; and

6           WHEREAS, Rhode Island's large and significant Portuguese population has made 7 substantial contributions to all aspects of the State's history and rich cultural diversity; and

8           WHEREAS, Between 1830 and 1860, whaling ships from Bristol, Newport, New 9 Bedford, and Fall River traveled to the Azores where they often took on Portuguese sailors. Many 10 of these sailors traveled back to New England, settling in Providence, Pawtucket, and East 11 Providence. They frequently took on work in the textile mills, which were abundant in the area at 12 the time, while others became farmers in Little Compton and Portsmouth; and

13           WHEREAS, The main goal for the Portuguese people coming to Rhode Island and the 14 United States was economic betterment, but, like the Irish and Italians, the Portuguese people all 15 too often suffered discrimination and exploitation in employment. Through perseverance and an 16 indomitable work ethic, they carved a future for themselves, their families, and generations to 17 come; and

18           WHEREAS, Thousands sought refuge in Rhode Island in the mid-20th century to escape 19 the devastation of the Capelinhos volcano on the Azorean island of Faial, opening the door for

1 legal immigration for all Portuguese and many other ethnicities; and

2 WHEREAS, The number of Rhode Islanders who claim Portuguese ancestry is nearly 3 10% of the state's population, the largest percentage of any state in the nation with the majority 4 making their homes in the Providence, Kent and Bristol Counties; and

5 WHEREAS, The 1st Congressional District of Rhode Island claims the highest 6 Portuguese population of any Congressional District in the U.S. House of Representatives; and

7 WHEREAS, The Portuguese American population in Rhode Island is an active and vital 8 part of our State. They have enriched and delighted our palates with fine restaurants that serve 9 traditional Portuguese dishes, and they actively contribute to and participate in all areas of the 10 community distinguishing themselves in leadership roles in such fields as the judiciary, law 11 enforcement, medicine, education, social services, entrepreneurship, civic engagement and 12 political participation; now, therefore be it
